

Cookies Policy

Introduction

Cookies are small files which ask for permission to be placed on your computer's hard drive. However, they were built specially to track, customise, and save information about specific user's sessions. Cookies allow web applications to acknowledge you and meet your independent needs. On summary cookies allow us to supply an all-round more efficient website, giving us a greater understanding on what is practically helpful on the web page and what isn't. It is important to note that a cookie does not have access to your computer and personal information other than what is given by yourself.

The LUV Nursery website uses cookies. These cookies are essential in acknowledging and differentiating you from other users. Accepting our web cookies enables us to give you the best possible experience while gaining important information on how we can make continual improvements. Once you accept the cookies the website becomes fully operational and ensures that you are all given relevant material. You may refuse the cookies if you wish; however, it is important to note that you may not have a fully functional web page.

The cookies assist us in the following:

- Providing analytics for our organisation, this is critical as it collects and analysis all of our website data which we can use to better our understanding of what users are seeking while browsing online.
- Cookies also help our website function as it should, preventing an unnecessary interruption.
- The cookies improve the rate at which the website runs and helps assist with security.
- Allows the sharing of pages.
- They help keep our advertising methods well organised.
- Make certain that our website recalls information which changes, for example users' language preference.
- They can analyse the performance of the web page, remembering key facts and figures such as preferences alongside likes and dislikes.

WHAT COOKIES DO WE USE

Strictly Necessary Cookies- these are cookies which are required to make sure that the website functions efficiently and effectively. They enable the user to easily browse the website and use all features such as accessing secure parts of the website. These cookies also help when users are filling in forms or may wish to change preferences such as language.

Analytical Cookies-these cookies do not identify you directly but help us gain a greater understanding of how many people visited certain parts of the web page. This is performed through google analytics which helps evaluate the website on a whole. This helps our organisations justification on why certain information may need to be implemented into the website or alternately taken away. You may refuse the cookies if you wish; however, it is important to note that you may not have a fully functional web page.

Functional Cookies-these cookies are really effective as they indicate to us if you have returned to the website. This allows the website to magnify functionality and modification to your personal needs. They also establish your preferred settings such as language preferences and persistently provide essential information displayed to you.

CHANGES TO OUR COOKIE POLICY

It is possible that LUV Nurseries will consistently update and amend the cookie policy in the future, any changes will be made to this page, therefore it is important that you check up regularly to see any updates made.

WHERE CAN I FIND OUT MORE INFORMATION

If you have any more queries or unanswered questions on cookies there are a number of articles across the internet which will give you a broader understanding. These are third party websites and are not associated with LUV nurseries.